Bill Rauer has more than 30 years of experience working within companies ranging in size from Fortune 25 to sole proprietorships. Bill is an expert in the "business of design and construction". During his 18-year career with Albertsons Inc. he shared responsibility for the company's $3.3 billion annual commercial real estate development program, including evaluating and qualifying general contractors throughout the United States. Also, Bill has been a residential general contractor himself, and is a professional architect*.

As a certified business coach, he leverages his technical experience and expertise to help owners and leaders in the design and construction industry meet their goals for time, team, money, and exit strategy, while alleviating the stress and frustration each of those areas can impose. The time-tested and proven techniques employed by "Coach Bill" have helped thousands realize returns several times that of their investment in coaching. And those owners have found they can live a more balanced life.

Bill's clients are high-performing business owners, or those who passionately want to be. And he is just as passionate as they are about helping them DREAM BIGGER, REACH HIGHER, and ACHIEVE MORE.
